

Contents

Preface ix

Introduction: Narrating Place-Relations 1

Part One. Early Modernists and the Archaeology of Place-Relations

1. Thomas Hardy: Facing the Physicality of Comprehensive Space 25
2. Joseph Conrad: Labor and the Physicality of Social Space 46
3. E. M. Forster: The Body and the Physicality of Intimate Space 66

Part Two. Later Modernists and the Teleology of Place-Relations

4. Graham Greene: Mystery and the Space Between 89
5. William Golding: Vision and the Spirit of Social Space 109
6. Taking Exception: Muriel Spark and the Spiritual Disciplines of Personal Space 128

Part Three. Toward a Narrative-Based Theory of Place-Relations

7. The Three Kinds of Place-Relations 149
8. The Two Sides of Place-Relations 173
9. The Single Norm of Place-Relations 190

Conclusion: Freeing the City from the Factual Profane 207

Notes 225

Bibliography 249

Index 265